Aiden Naji – NCSS Reference

To whom this may concern,

Aiden Naji has been a commendable student in the almost 2 years that I have taught him. He has displayed consistent effort, excellent time management and problem-solving ability.

During 2021, he worked hard using both prior knowledge and what I taught the class to excel in the photoshop unit. The following term, he led his group in the movie trailer task, and edited the final project excellently, receiving 90%. The website in the final unit used bleeding-edge web technologies that pushed it into the high mark it received.

He applied extensive prior knowledge and excellent research skills in the 3-term long VB.NET unit in 2022 and flourished, receiving 100% in all but one of the 3 projects, where a single mark was lost. These high marks ranked him second for semester one. He took initiative in the partner projects and worked excellently with the randomly assigned group, producing excellent clean, efficient and well-commented code.

Aiden has displayed excellent leadership, problem solving and programming skills in the time in which I have taught him. I will not hesitate in recommending him to take part in NCSS.
